Wind in the Willows Special Edition

A few of the students involved in the play got together today to talk about how they had changed and what they had learned about themselves over the course of the rehearsals and performances, and what feedback they had received.

Shashini:

My dancing has improved and my confidence has changed. On the day of the performance I was more excited than nervous, and that isn't usually how I am. I learnt that I could learn anything if I put my heart and soul into it. People told me that my dancing and of course the dance troupe's dancing was on point.

Yuvraj:

I learnt that I am able to learn things in very short time and I can handle pressure and not get nervous.

Elena:

Singing in front of a crowd has changed my confidence. I learnt that I can remember my lines and sing really well.

Tanner:

My self-confidence and faith in myself has grown. I've learnt that I can act, sing and remember my lines without a prompt. I've only received positive feedback from other students.

Sebastian:

I thought in rehearsals that I couldn't get the courage to sing, but now I know I can. I have learnt that I actually have more talent than I thought I'd have and that is something I'm keen on. People have been commenting on how good I went in the first performance at school.

Akayla:

I am now more confident to sing in front of a lot of people and I now would like to do more plays. I learnt how to remember songs and sing in tune. Miss Howland gave me good feedback which I put into practice.
